NOTES ABOUT THE FIGHTERS

Boston, Mass., March 10.-By virtue of the same old quick punch, Ketchel hung on Papke, Sandy Ferguson, for years discredited as a fighter, is today in the limelight, and Kubiack, the Michigan giant, is eclipsed. Ferguson stopped the Western man in the fourth round of what was schedin the fourth round of what was sched-uled to have been a 12 round contest at the Armory A. A. Three left jabs to the face, followed by a whipping right to the jaw, settled Kubiack. The final result hinged upon a punch sent in by Ferguson immediately after the first bell. As the men stepped to the cen-tre, Kublack advanced to shake hands. Quick as a flash Ferguson sent over terrific right hand drive that landed flush on the jaw and dropped Kubiack. He got up shaky.

From then until the end Ferguson gave a wonderful exhibition of jab-bing, gradually wearing down Kubiack and he was powerless to prevent the series of punches that ended in his de-

BAXTER BATS BALL BEAUTIFULLY

That long unsettled dispute between Joe Sullivan, the South End "Sod-buster" and Billy Baxter, the Chicago Phenom as to who was who, was finally settled at Seaside Park, Monday night. Sullivan bet Baxter that he could strike him out three out of six times at bat. The office force of E. C. & B. No. 1 plant have long been two participants and rather than let the two have any more to say took it upon themselves to get the match to-gether. Even though there was snow on the ground and the tree tops. Sullivan toed the pitcher's plate and Baxter with a trusty willow marched majestically to the batter's box. In order to win Baxter would have to hit the ball safe four times. Baxter's first attempt was successful the second and the third took the same route and the fourth not being willing to be outdone by its predecessors decided to go safe. Sullivan took his defeat gracefully, but his old smile is now lacking. The large crowd of spectators on hand congratu lated Baxter and then beat it home to the eats.

The Cohan & Harris Minstrels Proved Snappy Up-to-date Show With Strong Features.

Lew Dockstader is still the premier minstrel man although Cohan and Harris will make the genial Lew put forth his very best efforts in the burnt cork line of amusement if he does not wish to be superseded by the latest aspirants for the plam.

The show which the above named managers presented at Smith's theatr managers presented at Smith's theatre last evening in which "Honey Boy" Evans was starred, although it contained at least three of the leading vaudcyille acts of the past few seasons, was one which seemed to be generally pleasing.

George Evans, however, was over the development by Iulian shadowed in the performance by Julia. Eltinze, billed as the world's best fe male impersonator, and we guess he was for his performance was a most remarkable one. His make-up was absolutely perfect it seemed and with a voice of singular softness and the ability to use it his work was a treat. ability to use it his work was a treat.

George Cohan who it seems has a large proportion of the theatre-going public at his feet at the present time has injected some of his own ideas into the performance and the result was seen in the rapidity of movement of the different acts. A very well executed drill, at the end of which Mr. Cohan's national colors, red, white and blue, and green, are triumphantly blue, and green, are triumphant waved, seemed to strike the fancy the audience. Eddie Leonard and pickgninnies, who were a big hit is vaudeville last season, made a favor able impression. Mr. Leonard has a way all his own of "crooning" darket melodles which will continue to early a living for him for a long time to ome.

In the first part the singing of Morrell, the California tenor, was sensational and the yodling of Matt Keefe the finest heard in a long time. Mr Keefe's voice seems to be naturally suited to that particular style so well portrayed by Billy Scanlon and "Fritz" Emmett of a former generation. Mr Morse as interlocutor had little to do while John King and Alf Gibson filled in as end men.

The stage setting were especially fine, but Mr. Cohan's music was not as catchy as in his other musical productions.

The audience was of good size and enthusiastic, the "pit" especially, for isn't a minstrel show the kind that appeals most to that very critical portion of the house?
